In Loving Memory Of

Archie William Asher

9th October 2022 - 8th August 2024

Another World

I think there must be another world,
one where you and I,
are sitting side by side.
With our arms round one another,
and we're gazing at the sky.
And we wonder,
how on earth could it ever be?
That somewhere theres a world,
with no you, and just me.
Because you and I are one,
but we've been split in two.
It seems impossible that theres a me,
with out a you.
But there isn't - not really,
I carry you with me.
In my heart and soul,
is where you'll always be.
And I watch from this world,
for all your little signs.
They pull me through these days,
until that time arrives,
when were together again.
Sitting side by side,
with our arms round one another,
Gazing at the sky.

Remembering You

Truth be told, if I was old and again, we saw each other,
would the way I held
and loved you then stay with you forever?

Would you know me like I know you, love?
would you feel it in your soul?
An intersection
of two stars aligned
would you know it in your bones?

Though time was never on our side,
will you walk with me each day?
As I carry your heart,
and I hold your hand,
will you join me on my way?

Will the universe between my hand and womb
unfold within my dreams?
Will your smile, your cry,
your shadow feet
move through me like streams?

And though forever didn't come,
you will forever be mine.
I love you my darling,
I'll see you again,
and I'll hold you, for all of time.
