Celebrating the Life of

Wendy 'Kay' Johnson

15th September 1944 - 26th July 2025

An old-fashioned loving mother

Old-fashioned soul with a country heart,
From bushland beauty she'd never part.
Pink gumnuts bloomed in her gentle view,
And all that she did, she lovingly knew.

Five kids in tow, she held the line,
With quiet strength and hands that shine.
The dinners were plain - "you eat what you're fed!"
No fuss, just love, and off to bed.

And when things got wild or slightly absurd,
She reached (with a smile) for the old jug cord.
Not harsh, just firm - a mum's clear cue,
That order would come... or the jug cord flew!

She never swore, had a heart so wide,
Always helping, never with pride.
Polite, well-loved, and deeply wise,
With calm contentment in her eyes.

Kay, with her gentle grace,
Made this world a kinder place.
A good woman, true to the core,
Loved forever, and so much more.
